

I love my XM Radio. So much so that I bought stock in the company and I'm glad I did. XM is a great product and a great alternative to terrestrial radio. At this point I say let XM pursue it's endeavors in local programming but these articles raised an issue as far as I'm concerned. Did XM Radio sign an agreement with terrestrial radio companies to limit it's encroachment into the markets which terrestrial radio has provided services for. I AM all for competition to motivate better products at better prices but an agreement is an agreement. I am NOT all for XM saying one thing and then turning around and saying "We didn't agree to that." Or, "That's not what we meant by that." I would certainly like to see the "language" of that agreement (if any) and judge for myself who has got the most solid argument. Sorry for sounding like an attorney but the law is what we are fighting for. Isn't it?

Thanx for the opportunity to relay my thoughts on the subject.

Rick Kutcher